DASHING DINING

Houses are getting smaller and when space is at a premium, you need to look at how your rooms can work effectively in your home. We love this space not only for its stylish looks, but also for the way it incorporates seating and a dining area.

The island bench is in the middle and is finished in a bright white, helping to keep the room feeling light and minimalist. To its side, a table has been extended using the same material as the floor. This ensures a cohesive look in the room without it becoming too busy.

A built-in pantry was created for additional storage, again utilising every inch of the room and getting the most out of it. Stylish pendants add illumination and interest without attracting too much focus, and the window splashback at the back of the room adds extra light and is right on trend.

WE LOVE

The extension off the island — a great way to add a dining table without intruding into the rest of the home.
